

Politicos Worried As They Survey Legislature's Work

COLUMBUS, June 5—Republican politicians, who fear a fourth-term bid by Democrat Governor Frank Lausche like the plague, are holding their heads today over the many omissions of the GOP-dominated 99th Ohio General Assembly.

The weary lawmakers wound up their working sessions Sunday after an all-night session, and come back tomorrow in skeleton session to let their leaders sign the bills crammed through to passage in that last hectic day.

Then, two weeks from today, they return in full force for the sine die or final adjournment, and to act on any of Governor Lausche's veto messages—and indications are now that there will be plenty of them.

He is expected to disapprove the "back door" judges pay increase bill, the bill to make the attorney general the counsel for the turnpike commission, the transit bill, and several others.

But, beyond that, there is a long list of "didn't's" that the Republicans themselves "accomplished" to detract from the list of things they "did."

First and foremost, of course, is the bill to guarantee a minimum salary for school teachers. Both houses passed a bill—the house to increase state aid to schools by $19 million and the senate by $30 million—but the two chambers couldn't arrive at a compromise.

There is a lingering hope that the senate may recede enough from its position to accept a $21.5 million compromise offered by the house. The lawmakers set up that amount in the appropriations bill as a "school reserve fund" to finance any such compromise.

But that's only part of the story.

The house rules committee kept bottled up a bill to tighten control of stream pollution—and that may be costly politically in already - angry Cincinnati and other river cities.

The senate failed to act on a house-approved FEPC bill in the closing hours. That failure will be felt among labor and minority groups.

The solons did enact measures to give Governor Lausche more authority to combat gambling—a slot machine bill, a padlock-ing bill, a sheriff-mayor-prosecutor removal bill, a bill to let common pleas judges issue search warrants, and a bill to extend sports bribery laws to amateur sports.

The legislature failed to act on the governor's proposal to increase the state tax on parimutuel betting at race tracks. Since Ohio now has the lowest "take" of all the states in this respect, that failure may not ride too well with church groups—or, for that matter, for any school, local government or social group that is screaming for additional revenue.

The GOP legislature passed a law to increase truck taxes by $7.5 million, but rejected Governor Lausche's proposed ton-mile tax and his suggestion that the state gas tax be increased to provide more funds for Ohio's rapidly failing roads. That may be remembered by motorists every time they hit a bump.

The Republicans also are going to be denied their standard war-cry of economy in government. The budget submitted by Governor Lausche totalled $729 million—an all-time high. But the assembly increased it to $750 million and admits that it might be a deficit budget.

Finance Director Herbert Deffenbacher, a Republican retained by Governor Lausche, estimates that the state budget is at least $9 million in the red.

Acheson Says U.S. Foreign Policy Is Anti-Go-It-Alone

Yanks Could Propose Truce, But Want Support Of Allies

WASHINGTON, June 5—Secretary of State Dean Acheson said today the U. S. has the right to bring about a Korean armistice but will "consult in the closest possible way" with its United Nations allies before proposing or accepting a truce.

The secretary told senators investigating Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dismissal that it is "very important" that "we have the enthusiastic and warm support of all those who are taking part" in the Korean war. He indicated the U. S.

Reds Hit Hard In UN

Council Refuses To Recognize Mao

FLUSHING MEADOW, June 5—The United Nations today handed Russia one of its worst defeats on the China representation question by voting 11 to one against consideration of a Soviet demand to oust the Chinese Nationalists.

Following in the wake of Secretary of State Acheson's declaration in Washington that the Communists "cannot shoot their way into UN," the 12-nation trusteeship council overwhelmingly adopted a U. S. proposal to postpone indefinitely action on a Soviet demand to admit the Chinese Communists to the council.

A stiffening British attitude against Mao Tse-tung's Peiping regime was indicated by British Delegate Sir Alan Burns, who deplored the Communists' continued resistance against UN in Korea and cast his vote with the majority. There were no abstentions.

The council opened a six-week session today.

Several Western delegates have statements answering Russian charges that Mao is the properly constituted ruler of China.

THE OPENING session is a sounding board for the "peace feeler" atmosphere present on the international scene. UN Secretary General Trygve Lie and the British Commonwealth nations have stated that a "new effort" must be made to get a peaceful settlement along the 38th Parallel in Korea.

Poland's Julius Katz-Suchy, Cominform spokesman in UN, last night ruled out a cease-fire in Korea unless accompanied by a settlement of outstanding Far East issues—including Formosa and Red China's entry into UN.

The Chinese Communists and North Koreans have given no sign of willingness to negotiate a truce.

Russia is alone in the trusteeship council, which is made up of six trust administering countries and six without trust territories abroad. The United States, Britain, France, Belgium, Australia and New Zealand are the trust powers. Russia, China, Argentina, Dominican Republic, Iraq and Thailand are the other six.

Ohio Slaughter Total Is Up

COLUMBUS, June 5—Livestock slaughter in Ohio during April was one percent larger than the previous month and four percent higher than April of last year.

The Ohio Crop Reporting Service said today the April slaughter totaled 141,995,000 pounds as compared with the previous month's 140,294,000 pounds.

APPOINTED from the regular Army on a competitive basis, Cadet Gordon E. Danforth, of Greenhills, O., will graduate Tuesday as the No. 1 man in his class at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y. The honor man was serving as an Airforce sergeant in Germany when he was named to academy.

What A Boner! He Thought Cop Was A Bookie

CINCINNATI, June 5—Edward Yee, 48-year-old Cincinnati, was strictly out of the money when he thought a cop was a bookie.

Detective William Wood and a fellow officer went looking for bookies and found Mrs. Sophia Ortmann, 69, with Yee. Wood said he saw four race horse bet slips in her purse and started to make the arrest.

Yee asked:

"The fourth race off at Delaware yet?"

"No," Wood answered with as straight a face as he could. "Gimme 50-50 (50 cents) on Annie Oakley (a horse)."

That put Yee out of the money. In court, Judge Clarence Denning gave out the results of the race that never came off:

"Fine them $4 each. The city can use the money better than the bookies."

Conductor Dies

BOSTON, June 5—Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, one of the world's top conductors and conductor-emeritus of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, died last night in New England Medical Center after a brief illness. He was 76.

Upgrading Of Beef Cuts Being Probed By Agency

WASHINGTON, June 5—The government is quietly probing today reports of "upgrading" of low cost beef cuts to fancier prices and the diversion of meat into black market channels.

Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle reported that a 160-city survey showed that there is generally an "abundance" of the most popular retail grades of beef—choice and good—but a general shortage of commercial and utility grades.

DiSalle said that the shortage is being investigated to determine whether the utility and commercial is being "upgraded" to good and choice to command better prices, or whether the meat has been diverted into a black market.

Shortages of beef around Chicago, the nation's largest livestock market will get particular attention from OPS investigators.

The only region to show a drop in supplies, he added, was that around Chicago, taking in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. The

Lockbourne Farmers Get Hint Of Aid

Engineer Cites Some Possibilities

Possibility of a road outlet being provided for farmers in Madison and Harrison Townships after extension of Lockbourne airport was voiced Tuesday.

A representative of the U. S. Corps of Engineers told Lockaway County commissioners that if the need were great enough, a two-mile outlet road might be constructed to give farmers approximately the same outlet they have now.

The representative stressed that he spoke unofficially, was not voicing the opinion of the government engineering department.

The discussion was held in the office of Lockaway County Engineer Henry T. McCrady, who explained the representative had called in his office on a different matter.

BUT UPSTAIRS the county commissioners were sitting in the second day of their quarterly three-day meeting.

And among the things they were pondering was a request made Monday by a delegation of 25 farmers from Madison and Harrison Townships.

The farmers claimed that extension of Lockbourne airport would mean the abandonment or dead-ending of roads they have depended upon for years for getting to and from their farms.

They asked the commissioners to intercede for them with the federal government, to request construction of a two-mile road skirting the south end of the extended airport and joining the east end of Wright Road with Circleville-Lockbourne Road.

The commissioners seized the opportunity to consult with the government engineer on the matter. The discussion added up to these facts:

1. A letter will have to be written to the U. S. Corps of Engineers, Huntington, W. Va., stating the county's proposition.

2. IF THE NEED for a road is great enough, there is a good chance that arrangements for building one can be made. A lot depends on present traffic count of existing roads. McCrady said the count is "a little low."

3. The government possibly would make a cash settlement with the county and leave construction up to the county engineer's office.

4. The government possibly would agree to give the county (Continued on Page Two)

Two Adelpheans Critically Hurt In Auto Crash

An Adelphi mother and daughter were injured critically at about 11 a. m. Tuesday at "Dead Man's Crossing" near Leisville in a two-car crash.

A Toledo man, driver of the other auto involved, was injured less seriously in the crash.

Deputy Jim Diltz and State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells said the mishap occurred at Routes 56 and 159, just west of Leisville.

Critically injured in the crash were Mrs. Rosetta Congrove, 34, and her daughter, Myrtle, 13, both of Adelphi.

Driver of the other auto was identified as James L. Batavia, 28, of Toledo.

The officers said the Congrove auto was travelling west toward Circleville when the crash occurred, while the Batavia auto was travelling south on Route 159.

ACCORDING to the officers, the Batavia auto had started out into the intersection when the auto in which the Adelphi mother and daughter were riding, rounded a hilltop to cross the intersection.

The front end of the Congrove auto collided with the left front of the Batavia car, the officers said, whipping both cars to gether.

After crashing together, the Batavia auto travelled across the intersection to halt in a ditch while the Congrove auto skidded (Continued on Page Two)

Supreme Court Ruling Due To Bring More Red Arrests

NEW YORK, June 5—A United States attorney today promised "forthcoming action" against Communist subversives with the support of the U. S. Supreme Court ruling upholding the conviction of 11 top party leaders.

Prosecutor Irving H. Saypol noted that evidence of subversive activities by other Communist Party leaders had already been presented to a special federal grand jury in New York.

He praised the high court decision, saying it "fortifies the broad offensive against the internal enemy who is but the shadow of the enemy without."

Legal circles declared that the court ruling sustaining the conviction of the Communist chiefs for conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force paved the way for prosecution of the party's 55,000 members.

The 11, who are free on bail ranging from $20,000 to $30,000, are not expected to be remanded to jail for at least 25 days, according to the federal prosecutor.

HOWEVER, FIVE of their attorneys sentenced by Judge Harold R. Medina to prison terms for contempt of court may be asked to surrender within ten days. Medina, who presided at the lengthy trial, declined to comment on the Supreme Court ruling.

Harry Sacher, one of the Communists' attorneys, announced that he will ask the court for a rehearing within the 15-day period provided by law.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party and one of the 11 sentenced to jail, declared:

"Come what may, the Communist Party will continue its efforts to unite the American

Wage Ceilings Are Eyed For Price-Exempt Groups

WASHINGTON, June 5—A special six-man panel holds hearings today and tomorrow on whether wage ceilings should apply to motion picture, radio and television stars and other persons employed by industries exempt from price control.

Union leaders indicated that Labor will make a fight for applying controls to the exempt industries in new legislation now being drafted in Congress.

Those exempt under existing law which expires June 30, include motion picture concerns, radio and television stations, railroads and public utilities.

The Wage Stabilization Board, meanwhile, will undertake to decide today whether to approve wage increases based on greater productivity per employee through technological advancement.

The board is still trying to formulate a new ceiling policy

Mid-Korea Sees Allies Held Firm

Foe Strikes Back With New Violence

TOKYO, June 5—United Nations troops driving toward a key supply area in Central North Korea hacked out fresh gains ranging up to more than a mile and a half today, despite fierce Communist resistance.

Chinese and North Korean forces struck back violently in most sectors of the 125-mile front, provoking battles in which Allied columns had to slug their way forward virtually foot by foot.

At some points, particularly along the four main roads leading up to the Pukhwa-Chorwon-Pyongyang triangle in the center, the grinding UN push was fought to a near halt by the enemy.

In the west, however, Allied troops stormed across the north bank of the strategic Imjin river in the area east of Korangpo which is 29 miles north-northwest of Seoul, the South Korean capital.

The U. S. Eighth Army said in its Tuesday night communique that the crossing was achieved in the face of "heavy small arms fire" laid down by Reds defending the southwest approaches to Chorwon.

FARTHER EAST, it was announced, other UN forces hammered out gains up to 3,000 yards above Yonchon which lies six miles north of Parallel 38, astride the Uijongbu-Chorwon highway.

A front dispatch said that limited Allied gains in some sectors "were partly due to the ruggedness of the terrain and not from Chinese resistance."

The dispatch also reported that in the central sector the enemy's heavy and light artillery pounded UN positions with a nightlong shelling. A regimental commander narrowly escaped death or injury when an enemy shell landed within 25 feet of his command tent. He was not hurt.

Northeast and north of Yongpyong, along a road leading up to Kumbwa from the southwest, the Eighth Army said Red troops made a "limited" withdrawal Tuesday under withering Allied artillery and air strikes.

But in the mountainous center of the front it was a different story. There two Chinese regiments—one north-northwest and the other north of Hwachon—blocked the UN advance on Kumbwa from the southeast.

Throughout Tuesday these regiments offered what the communists described as "heavy resistance." No Allied gains were claimed above Hwachon.

In the east-central area, UN troops smashed forward up to (Continued on Page Two)

Italy Red Bloc Loses In Poll

PALERMO, June 5—The Italian government's Christian Democratic Party held a slight lead today over the Social Communist "peoples' bloc" in nearly complete returns from the Sicilian parliamentary election.

The latest tally gave the Christian Democrats 670,000 votes and the Social Communists 650,000. The anti-Mafia Italian Social Movement Party got 275,000 votes.

1,500 yards northeast of Yanggu during the morning, dispersing the enemy to the north," the Eighth Army bulletin related.

BUT OTHER attacking Allied forces farther east became "heavily engaged" with bitterly resisting Red troops above Inje and Hangeye.

Along the eastern seaboard, the communists said, a counter-attacking North Korean company "penetrated" Allied positions west-southwest of the UN-held port of Kamsong in the morning, but was "repulsed" in the afternoon.

Kamsong lies 30 road miles up the shoreline highway from the 38th Parallel. North Koreans had infiltrated Allied lines west of the city Monday, but were cleared out, only to renew the counterblows Tuesday.

Allied planes carried out numerous low-level attacks Tuesday in close support of the UN ground forces.

A Fifth Airforce Tuesday night summary said UN airmen destroyed or damaged 47 supply-filled boxcars, cut enemy rail and highway lines at a dozen places and inflicted at least 100 casualties.

Following nine Red counterattacks Monday, an Eighth Army spokesman said the enemy has switched from the delaying maneuvers of the last week to full-scale "defensive action."

Gains were gouged out by Allied columns toward Kumhwa and Chorwon, the two points at the base of the "iron triangle." But these advances were very small in the face of the bitter Red opposition.

Unsafe Driving Brings $10 Fine

John T. Reber of Circleville was fined $10 and costs Monday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for operating a vehicle which was in unsafe condition.

State Highway Patrolman J. W. O'Neil arrested the gas truck driver on Route 23 following a minor mishap.

O'Neil said a cap from one of the truck's tank openings came off while the truck was moving and struck the hood of an approaching car, badly damaging the hood. No one was reported injured.

$300 Collected In Cancer Drive

Circleville Kiwanis Club collected about $300 in donations Monday night during its "lights on" cancer crusade drive.

Kiwanians collected the money in about an hour from Circleville homes where porch lights were left burning to signify that the homeowner had money to contribute to cancer research.

Kiwanis President Elmon Richards said the club's fund-collecting will continue for several weeks. No definite goal has been set for the campaign.

Sheriff Checks New Grave

A body was exhumed, examined and laid back to rest Monday in an old Perry Township cemetery near Atlanta.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff ordered the exhumation Monday following a report that a burial had been made in the old Lewis cemetery just south of Atlanta without a permit.

A fresh grave was discovered in the old cemetery just before Memorial Day when a caretaker mowed the area. The new grave was about three feet long and more than two feet wide.

News of the fresh grave in the old cemetery brought rumors reaching as far as Circleville concerning the grave—bodies of unwanted babies, husbands, wives and even gold.

CLYDE LAMB, who operates the farm on which the old cemetery is located, told the sheriff that he had seen several persons carrying a box back to the plot about a month ago but hadn't thought anything of it.

Law Officials Probe Series Of Accidents

A flurry of highway traffic mishaps plagued Pickaway County law enforcement officials late Monday and Tuesday.

Robert Kirkpatrick, 30, of Springfield, suffered face cuts and bruises in a two-car crash on Route 56 near Five Points at about 5 p. m. Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Diltz said Kirkpatrick stated he was attempting to pass an auto operated in the same direction by Robert Lewis, 31, of Mt. Sterling Route 1, when the Lewis auto turned left into his auto.

George L. Creasap, 21, of Ashville Route 1, suffered a serious right knee injury at about 6 a. m. Tuesday when the left front tire on his auto blew out.

SHERIFF CHARLES Radcliff said the mishap occurred on the Ashville-Lockbourne road about five miles north of Ashville.

The sheriff said the blowout caused Creasap to lose control of the auto, which skidded around and overturned onto its top in the ditch to the right of the highway.

Creasap suffered serious injury to his right kneecap in the crash, the sheriff said. He was treated in Ashville by Dr. W. R. Hoffman.

In addition, the sheriff investigated another one-car mishap on the same road about two miles closer to Ashville at about 7:30 a. m. Tuesday.

The sheriff said an auto operated by Donald Hanley, 19, of near Stoutsville, went into the ditch to the left of the highway and tore out six rods of new farm fencing.

Hanley told the sheriff he had swerved sharply to the left to avoid a crash with another auto, which had stopped abruptly in front of his car. No one was injured.

Circleville police investigated a one-car accident on North Court street and Montclair avenue at about 1:45 a. m. Tuesday.

OFFICER HAROLD Green said an auto operated South on Court street by A. J. Snyder, 31, of Chillicothe Route 3, jumped the curb to the right of the highway, sideswiped a road sign and two trees before stopping.

Snyder told the officer an approaching auto had forced him to swerve his auto to the right to avoid a collision. No one was injured.

Dale Jacob Blush, 41, of Newaygo, Mich., was fined $25 and costs in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root Monday for reckless operation following a traffic mishap at about 3:40 p. m. Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Diltz said Blush was travelling west on Route 22 when he apparently discovered that he had failed to make a correct turn-off.

He attempted to turn left from Route 22 into the old macadam-surfaced road just east of Thomas Airport.

Meanwhile, an auto operated west on Route 22 by Charles Wallace, 40, of Williamsport, was in the act of passing the truck when Blush made the left turn. The left side of the truck's bumper struck the Wallace car at the right front door.

Deputy Diltz said the bumper ripped out the door post and sheared the right rear portion of the car from the remainder of the auto body.

dug down into the new mound of earth. Sure enough, there was a body.

Covered with a metal protective covering, wrapped in a blanket and encased in a cardboard box was the body of a bulldog.

"Probably someone's pet died and the children wanted to bury it," Radcliff said.

Acheson Gives Policy

nists "cannot shoot 'their way into the UN."

The secretary told senators that the "line of persuasion taken by America so far 'has been successful and it will be successful in my judgment.'"

Acheson said that if the U. S. should find itself in a minority on the issue of seating the Chinese Reds, the world court should be asked to rule in advance whether an adverse vote is a veto. He added:

"IF THE WORLD court decides that that is a veto, then that settles the matter in the Security Council."

But he declared that the fight against letting the Reds "shoot their way in" is a "very powerful position, much more powerful than legal arguments."

Acheson, meanwhile, challenged Admiral Forrest Sherman's testimony that "steps are being taken" in the UN to authorize a naval blockade of Red China.

Sherman, U. S. Chief of Naval Operations, testified last week that he favored a UN naval blockade to squeeze the Chinese Communists out of the Korean war. The admiral emphasized that the U. S. must not "go it alone."

The Navy chief said that "steps" were being taken in the UN to win authorization of the blockade plan.

But Acheson declared that Sherman had neither recommended nor been overruled on a naval blockade. The secretary said:

"A naval blockade at this time has not been recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. We are not pushing it in the UN because we believe we are much more likely to get results by increasing the economic restrictions rather than asking nations to go further in a military way than they are prepared to go in the economic way."

ACHESON SAID he hoped that a UN economic embargo on shipments to Red China will have been put in effect by June 26.

Acheson said the U. S. proposed "hot pursuit" of Communist planes into Chinese territory because "abuse of Manchuria could easily impose an intolerable burden" on UN forces in Korea.

ACHESON TOLD the senators yesterday that:

1. There was not and is not any "Communist influence" in the State Department shaping U. S. policy on China.

2. At present there are no forces "strong enough or active enough" in China to threaten the Communist regime. He made it clear that applies to the Nationalist forces on Formosa as well as to guerrillas in China proper.

3. There is unity in America or U. S. policy everywhere in the Far East except China. He cited the Philippines, Indo-China, Malaya, Japan, and the Dutch East Indies.

4. Gen. Marshall insisted that he prepare the instructions for his 1946 mission to China, but later accepted suggestions altering them from Secretary of State Byrnes, Sen. Brewster, (R) Me., said this was in conflict with Marshall's testimony that

Large Glass Window Broken

A large plate glass window in the Circleville Implement Co. building at Clinton and Mill streets was broken by a passing car or truck last Sunday.

Employees of the company came to work Monday to find a gaping hole near the middle of the large window and an egg-size rock on the floor inside.

Officials theorized the rock was hurled against the window when a car or truck pinched it under its tire while passing in front of the building late Saturday or Sunday. The window was insured.

Wrong Car Tags Cost Man $50

Leslie Rowe, 37, of Catlettsburg, Ky., was fined $50 and costs Monday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for operating an auto with fictitious license plates.

Rowe was arrested last week-end on South Court street by Officers Harold Green and John White when they identified the plates on the Rowe car as a pair which was reported stolen earlier from a car in Columbus.

DEATHS and Funerals

MRS. ROSA BROWN

Mrs. Rosa Brown, 85, widow of Amos Brown, died at 8:45 p. m. Monday in her home in Hallsville.

She was born Dec. 2, 1865, in Hallsville, the daughter of Isaac and Mary Leasure DeLong. Her husband preceded her in death in 1930.

Mrs. Brown is survived by four sons, Clarence and Pearl Brown of Hallsville, Alfred Brown of Kingston and Milburn Brown of Columbus; four daughters, Mrs. Charles Gilbert and Mrs. Plummer Karshner of Hallsville, Mrs. Hazel Farman of Columbus and Mrs. Virgil Stonerock of Kingston; a sister, Mrs. Lovina Steele of Kingston, and two brothers, George and Albert DeLong of Kingston.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in Hallsville Evangelical United Brethren church with the Rev. E. B. White officiating. Burial will be in Hallsville cemetery directed by L. E. Hill Funeral Home of Kingston.

Friends may call in the residence after 7 p. m. Tuesday.

MRS. ROCKFORD HART
Mrs. Mabel I. Hart, 39, wife of Rockford V. Hart of Columbus, died Monday in Grant hospital, Columbus. They were former residents of Circleville.

She is survived by her husband; a son, Clarence V. Hart; her father, Alfred Byers of Ashville; her mother, Mrs. Laura Byers of Fairview avenue, Circleville, and five sisters, Mrs. Louise Brown and Mrs. Lucille Cornette of Columbus, Mrs. Vivian Lennox of Salt Lake City, and Mrs. Fae Smith and Mrs. Rose Case, also of Circleville.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. Thursday in O. R. Woodyard Funeral Home, Columbus, where friends may call.

an easement over government land at the southern tip of the extended airbase.

The landowners appearing before the commissioners Monday explained that they are located south and south-east of the airbase.

The project that would block them off is a proposed extension of the airbase. About 1,100 acres in Pickaway County have been earmarked for purchase by the government.

McCrady said the airbase will extend a mile into Pickaway County.

Reason for acquiring new land is to provide room to extend runways at Lockbourne to handle multi-jet bombers.

According to McCrady, expansion of the base means closing of portions of the Wright Road and Circleville-Lockbourne - Eastern Road.

Out-Of-Court Accord Sought

An out-of-court settlement of a $22,650 damage suit was being negotiated Tuesday after several days hearing before a petit jury in Pickaway County common pleas court.

The suit was filed by Anne Dorn against Harold Dick, and grew out of an auto collision at the intersection of State Route 3 and the Harrisburg - Darbyville Road on May 31, 1950.

around to head south into Route 159.

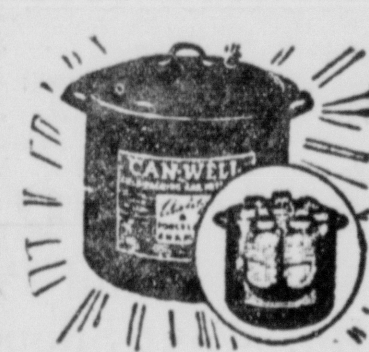

Mrs. Congrove and her daughter both were unconscious upon arrival in Berger hospital. Both were reported in critical condition.

Hospital attaches said Mrs. Congrove suffered a possible brain concussion, possible skull fracture, head lacerations and a fractured left arm.

Her daughter suffered a fractured skull, fractured nose and face and neck lacerations. She was to be removed to a Columbus hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Batavia's injuries seemed to be limited to lacerations.

All three suffered shock.

PRICE WAR

WHETHER the price-cutting war now underway in New York will peter out soon, can be only a guess.

For weeks financial pages and business papers were full of stories of heavy inventories, of stores curtailing their purchases because they were heavily stocked with merchandise, of factories turning out civilian goods more rapidly than retail outlets could absorb the stocks.

All that was required to set off the present price war was a decision by the Supreme Court to the effect that manufacturers could not dictate prices at which retailers offered branded merchandise unless the retailer had agreed in writing to adhere to the manufacturer's prices.

Macy's in New York announced it would sell price-fixed merchandise at six percent less than the usual prices. This had been Macy's policy prior to price-fixing laws. Other stores in New York, champing at the bit for business, were quick to get into the race, and women shoppers rushed to the stores by the hundreds of thousands.

The result to date of the price war seems to indicate lagging sales were not the result of lack of buying power on the part of the public. People were slow to buy apparently because they thought prices were too high. The scent of bargains started them heading to the sales counters as never before.

SPLENDID YOUTHS

THE surprising resilience of youth is exemplified by the fact that the morale of American troops in Korea has consistently remained high despite indications that the war would continue for an indefinite period.

The Army's program of rotation seems to have paid off. Most important aspect of life for the GI is the prospect that his replacement will soon arrive and he will go home. He sees buddies being pulled out of the line and sent home on rotation, and so he knows his time is coming.

This hope of better days to come makes a hard life bearable. It has given rise to a grim sort of humor. One sample of GI wit is the saying that 20 years from now the Korean war will be more comfortable because the soldiers won't have to dig foxholes. They will be using the foxholes their fathers dug. Along the roads are GI signs reading: "Be careful driving. The man you kill may be your replacement."

California citizen 100 years old attributes his longevity to a lifetime of hard work. What a life.

- 1—He was born at Hipswell, Yorkshire, England, circa 1320. He was educated at Oxford and became a master there for a time. Later he was a popular preacher and religious reformer. He first rebelled against some of the customs of the Roman Catholic church, and later against its constitution. He wrote and distributed a number of tracts, and appealed to the ordinary people through itinerant preachers whom he had organized. He also translated the Bible into English. His insistence was on inward religion in opposition to the formalism of the time. He was condemned as heretical, but except for brief periods of detention, principally in his own home, he was never persecuted. He died on New Year's Eve, 1384. These Days

David Lawrence has altogether correctly called attention to a falsification of the impression, if not actually of the news, in the instance of a Pentagon press release to the effect that the Joint Chiefs of Staff had initiated the General MacArthur dismissal. This was aimed to counter MacArthur's speech before Congress.

We now know from the testimony of Generals Bradley, Collins and Vandenberg that the Joint Chiefs not only had not initiated the dismissal, but that they were not consulted until after the decision was taken. The conference on the decision consisted of President Truman, General Marshall, Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman and General Bradley. Absent from the conference were the Joint Chiefs, General Collins, Admiral Sherman and General Vandenberg. Bradley is an impartial chairman of this body without vote and without actual Chief of Staff functions.

No member of the Chiefs of Staff will say that he gave out the false statement or that he knows who did. It was done by a Pentagon spokesman.

This is a device of American journalism that should be abandoned because it increases the possibility of falsehood in the news. What is a Pentagon spokesman, or a White House spokesman or any other kind of spokesman? He is a person with a name, address, birth certificate and probably a driver's license. He can be identified. He is known to the reporters who accept from his hand a mimeographed statement. He should be identified to the readers by name.

Men who have to stand by what they say tend to be more careful of the facts, although this generalization includes numerous exceptions, politicians, in particular, being assured by experience that the public memory is short. On the other hand, the record is long and available and men are often confronted by their errors of judgment and commission at the wrong time in their careers. The record should be kept straight, particularly as regards public issues.

The President and the secretary of state have established the rule that they may not be quoted directly without their consent. This is an unfortunate rule because the paraphrased reports of what they do say at press conferences are often confusing and contradictory.

I have never attended a press conference because I have no desire to hear from officials in office anything which I cannot use, giving full responsibility to the provider of the information. Sometimes I am told that the quotations in this column are too long and too numerous. Yet, I feel that a quotation is better journalism than a paraphrase because it is more accurate. Also there are other men who are as wise as this columnist and their ideas might be even better phrased and often are.

Similarly when a press agent sends a yarn, I like to give his name. He is the source. If I choose to use such a source, I feel that the reader should know it. The reader alone ought to count in the journalism of a free people. Protecting politicians by the device of the "spokesman" is not providing the reader with an essential and accurate fact, the source of the news.

CHAPTER THIRTY

"HIYA, POLKS," Frazier said. "This is an unexpected. Care to say a few words which will be carried into every hamburger joint east of the Pecos?"

"Not me," McGann said. "I'm holding out for a guest shot with Phil Spitalny. Maybe Chary would."

She was smiling at Farwell with unusual warmth and McGann decided that she was still mad at him. He knew it when she put her hand on Frazier's arm and turned the charm on high. "I'd rather just listen to the master," she said. "Do that takeoff on Arthur Godfrey doing a takeoff on Gaen Drake."

"Oh, that," Farwell said modestly. "No, do it. You're wonderful on that."

McGann leaned against the wall and decided that nothing short of an attack of acute appendicitis would enable him to get back into the conversation. The music suddenly ended and Farwell slipped back to the microphone, picking up the tale of his mythical balloon with practiced nonchalance. He did the takeoff on the takeoff while Chary registered delight at him through the glass. Then he announced a medley of three numbers, which McGann knew would give them a chance to talk. Farwell came out again and turned down the speaker.

"That was simply terrific," Chary gushed, while Farwell looked pleased.

"Oh, no, you don't, McGann thought and jumped in with both feet. "I want to borrow that will record Tompkins made," he said. "Holton told me he let you have it for your collection."

Farwell looked bewildered. "But I didn't get it."

"He sent it to you this afternoon."

Farwell shook his head and ran thin fingers nervously through his yellow hair. "Holton promised I could have it but it didn't arrive. I figured I'd have to pick it up."

"Pearson was supposed to bring it to you."

A light dawned in Farwell's eyes. "That ozonated Jeeves," he said. "That bird-baiting butler. He'd steal a worm from the first robin."

"He never delivered the record, then?"

"If he's gone south with that item," Farwell said. "I'll run him to Patagonia. Why do you realize?"

"You won't have to chase him that far, McGann said. "He's stopping in Jamaica to rest. I'll take the short cut and head him off at the pass."

The engineer was waving frantically to Farwell. "Gotta get back to the mine," he said. "Can you stick around?" He ducked in before they could answer and was hardly back at the microphone when a young messenger came through the room. The messenger had a length of yellow teletype paper in his hand. He glanced at McGann and then slowed up, giving Chary both barrels. When he finally went inside he thrust the teletype before Farwell and continued to stare back at her. McGann turned the speaker up again. "The boys and girls in the ballroom," Farwell was saying, and stopped, scanning the message.

"We interrupt this broadcast," he said, "to bring you a special bulletin from our news room." There was a curious timbre in his voice and he looked out at them with a drawn face.

"Police tonight sounded an eight-state alarm for the apprehension of Dinkman 'Dink' Weston, a New York newspaperman, in connection with the recent murder of Ronald Tompkins. Weston, an intimate of the slain copper-heir, is wanted for questioning in several newly-uncovered phases of the investigation, according to Deputy Inspector Cornelius O'Callahan."

"Dink!" Chary gasped.

"They're crazy," McGann said. He took Chary's arm and signaled that they were going. Farwell had started his sacred commercial and spread his hands helplessly. "That's why I'm going to ask you right now to send in your check to the Book-of-the-Hour Club," he intoned. "You will receive by return mail—and in a plain wrapper—that passionate, pulsating novel of a Yankee heart aflame on foreign shores—'The Sultan From Salem!'"

"Going," McGann mouthed, pointing to the outer door.

Farwell grimaced and held up a fistful of typewritten pages. "When a man from Mass meets a maid whose only code is Love," he said desperately, "no harem can hold her. And don't let anybody hold you from sitting down right now or writing out that check. I repeat—"

"Let's go," McGann said. "Some of these commercials are longer than the books."

"All right," Chary said. The false gaiety had fled. Her eyes were inexpressibly weary. "What do you suppose they'll do to Dink?"

"They've got to find him first."

"What are you going to do now?"

"I've got to figure a few angles," McGann said evasively. "Will you do something for me?"

"What?"

"Go back to the hotel. Stay there like you did before and get some rest. I'll call you."

He signaled a cab and it swerved over and he put her in. "The Ward," he said, thrusting a bill at the driver. He smiled at her through the window but her face was set. The cab pulled away and in a minute he got another one. He gave the driver the address of his East 47th Street garage and bounced back against the leather as it leaped forward.

The attendant brought the convertible out. "Anybody been looking for me tonight?" McGann asked. "Especially a little guy in an accordion-pleated hat?"

"Not a soul, Mr. McGann."

McGann slid behind the wheel. "I'm not sure he has one," he said. "I'll settle for the mortal husk."

He swung over toward Third and headed for his office.

McGann pushed a dashboard button and the convertible top slid soundlessly up and into place. He turned south under the steel network of the Third Avenue elevated, and switched on the radio. In a moment, Frazier Farwell was saying urgently, "...now. Tomorrow may be too late to take advantage of this wonderful offer."

He paused, and when he resumed McGann could detect the relief in his voice. "Here's a version of Canadian Capers that Ted Weems did back in 1934..."

He turned the music down low, the thin whistling of Elmo Tanner barely sounded above the drumming of the tires on the rough paving blocks. There were few people about in this neighborhood and the only lights besides the street lamps were from the taverns. McGann turned into 42nd Street, past the skyscraper housing his office, driving slowly to spot the passersby. Several taxis jockeyed toward the light and the DPW men in gray uniforms were feeding ashcans into their huge gray truck—banging them back onto the sidewalk—but there was no sign of Weston.

McGann drove on to his apartment, peering into the foyer, and then circling the block with no better luck. What his unofficial assistant had been up to to draw an eight-state alarm, he could not imagine. But he was reasonably certain that Weston would be trying to find him.

He turned back to 42nd Street and was going on to telephone The Blade city desk when he saw a thin figure in a topcoat and battered hat emerge from Grand Central Station. Weston glanced back over his shoulder and started hurriedly across the street half a block beyond McGann.

In a moment a newsy figure flung out of the station, paused for a quick look around and started after the reporter Weston broke into a run. McGann switched off his lights and stamped on the accelerator. The convertible leaped forward and at the same moment McGann leaned on the horn.

The detective pursuing Weston halted abruptly in the middle of the street, then leaped back as the blaring, lightless car bore down. Up ahead, the reporter was setting a new track record to Lexington Avenue. McGann swerved toward the curb, threw open the door and yelled, "Dink!"

He had picked up to fifty again before the reporter had the door closed. They heard the shrill blast of a police whistle, followed instantly by a shot.

In the days when Soviet-American relations were not quite as strained as they are now, a delegation of kaffy Kreminites came here seeking a loan. "As security," they pointed out, "you have only to remember all our coal, gold, and iron." "But that's still underground," said the American negotiator. "What have you got on the surface?"

The Russian spokesman's eyes flashed, and he barked, "We have the Soviet government." "Tell you what we'll do," proposed the American. "We will wait till your coal, gold, and iron are on the surface, and your Soviet government is underground, and then we will grant you the loan."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Our barber was amazed to hear that Costello ran against DeValera in Ireland. He said: "I thought Kefauver took him out of politics for all time."

When we told him that this was John A. Costello, he said: "What's the difference? Everybody knows the old song 'Frankie and Johnnie were Sweethearts.'"

But he's not so dumb. When we asked him if he knew that some people wanted Rudolph Halley to go into politics he said: "You can't fool me; Halley is a comet."

Pythian Sisters Of Majors Temple Celebrates 30th Anniversary With Program

Charter Members Are Honored

Thirtieth anniversary celebration of Majors Temple of Pythian Sisters was launched by the "Bucket Quartet" singing a song of welcome to members and their guests.

Introduced by Mrs. Loring Evans, members of the quartet, Miss Clarissa Talbot, Mrs. Olan Bostwick, Miss Mary Katherine Kennedy, and Miss Margie Carmean, appeared dressed in the fashion of the period. They were wearing long black skirts, white blouses and large picture hats, laden with an assortment of fruit, feathers and flowers. Each carried a bucket and wore an old-fashioned apron.

The song, composed by Miss Carmean, related incidents in the history of the chapter.

Miss Jo Ann Brink, accompanied by Miss Ruth Styers, also sang a solo.

One of the program highlights was the reading of the lodge history by Miss Ethel Stein.

Many charter members of the organization were present for the affair. Names of those still active were read and included, Miss Ethel Cook, Mrs. Robert Denman, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Mae Groce, Mrs. Milton Manson, Miss Laura Mantle, Mrs. Leroy May, Mrs. Fred Newhouse, Mrs. M. M. Newton, Miss Stein, Miss Alice Wilson, Robert Denman, Charles Fellers and Clarence Stein.

Members of neighboring chapters attending the festivities were from Ashville, Adelphi and Stoutsville.

Mothers and daughters both members of the order were introduced including Mrs. Evans, daughter, Mrs. John Gussman; Mrs. Mary Talbot and daughter, Miss Clarissa Talbot; Mrs. Edgar Carmean and daughter Miss Margie Carmean and Mrs. Mae Groce whose daughter was unable to attend the celebration.

Past district deputies, Mrs. T. M. Glick and Mrs. Hattie Cryder of Ashville were introduced along with the present district deputy, Mrs. Sam Cloud also of Ashville.

A dessert course was served by members of the drill team from a large table placed across one end of the lodge hall. It was centered with a large birthday cake decorated with the numeral "30". The cake was surrounded by tiny flags and a wreath of flowers. Other smaller tables were placed around the room each decorated in yellow, blue, red, and white candies, the lodge colors.

Each guest found at her place a miniature picture hat made of varied colored paper with a marshmallow crown and decked with bits of lace, tiny feathers and tiny paper flowers.

Charter members were presented with a rosebud fastened into a pastel handkerchief.

The evening's festivities were concluded with a fancy drill by the 16 members of the team with

Mr. And Mrs. Watt To Attend Week's Events Of School

On Monday, Mrs. Donald H. Watt of North Court street attended the first of a series of events given this week by Columbus School for Girls where her daughter, Miss Nancy Watt, has completed four years as a pupil.

The alumnae supper in honor of the class of 1951 was given by Mrs. Ralph Beaton in her home, North Parkview, Bexley.

Wednesday evening both Mr. and Mrs. Watt plan to attend the program for upper school pupils, parents, guests and alumnae, in the gymnasium.

They will also be present Thursday afternoon at the graduation service in First Congregational church where Charles P. Taft will give the address.

Later Thursday afternoon they will attend the reception given the graduating class in Parson Place.

Miss Watt will be one of the seniors attending the Headmistress's Breakfast for the graduating group to be held in Rocky Fork Country Club Friday morning.

Luncheon, Guest Day Is Planned

June luncheon and guest day of Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, will be held in Pickaway Country Club, June 19.

Reservations for the event may be made with Mrs. E. W. Hedges, Mrs. Stanley Beckett of Ashville or Mrs. Harry McGhee of Williamsport before June 15.

Solaqua Garden Club Elects New Officers

Peonies and roses from the garden of Miss Grace Alsbaugh were dominant in arrangements used throughout the home of Mrs. V. M. Klingensmith of Madison Township Friday when she entertained Solaqua Garden Club.

A slate of new officers was presented by the nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Walter Cummins, Mrs. A. W. Boone, and Mrs. Alfred Cook.

Mrs. Harry Trump was selected to officiate as club president for the coming year. Others elected to serve with her were: Mrs. Cecil Ward, vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Hedges, secretary; and Mrs. Lee Downs, treasurer.

Several items of business were discussed including a report of an all-day meeting held in Robtown recently, given by Mrs. Charles Roger. Invitations to the Rose Breakfast June 8th in Pickaway Country Club and to an all day meeting being sponsored by Commercial Point Garden Club June 20 were read.

Mrs. James Hott reported on a meeting held in Newark recently in which Mrs. Leo Storey of Huntington, W. Va., was speaker.

The Huntington narcissus show and annual Ross County Garden Club flower show were reviewed by members who attended these events.

The club picnic to have been held June 8 was cancelled and a television party planned for the future.

Following the election and business session, refreshments were served by the hostess to members and guests, Marian Ward and Mary Ellen Downs. She was assisted by Miss Alsbaugh.

July meeting will be held in

HE'S NOT LAZY, JUST SMART

Mulch Is Best Cultivator, Soils Specialist Claims

Any of your neighbors spread a layer of straw over their potato patch?

And as you took a hoe to the weeds in your spud plot, did you mumble about how lazy Mr. Neighbor was?

Well, the latest advice is that he isn't lazy, he is smart. And chances are his straw cover will do his potatoes more good than two hoes.

The information comes from Ohio State university where a specialist declares:

"Gardeners can do anything with a mulch they can do with cultivation. They can do it more easily and it will be a better job."

"Mulching is a modern method of cultivation," Victor H. Ries, floriculturist at OSU, declares. "In the old days, we felt we had to cultivate to keep the surface of the soil loose to take in rainfall. A mulch of organic material does a better job."

LOOSENING AND aeration can be done only when the soil is being prepared—by incorporating organic matter prior to planting. Mulching also provides

Local Cycle Club Sets Inspection For June 11-16

Members of Gypsy Roamers motorcycle club of Circleville plan to have their motorcycles checked during AMA Motorcycle Safety Inspection Week June 11 through 16.

The inspection is part of a nationwide safety campaign sponsored by the American Motorcycle Association, governing body of the two-wheeled sport.

Machines will be checked for brakes, tires, chains, mufflers, lights and wiring and control cables. Safety stickers go on the bikes passing the inspection.

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said the inspection should help minimize accidents due to mechanical failure.

Paul Eitel, president of the club, urged all motorcycle riders, whether club members or not, to have their machines checked for safety during inspection week.

Phone Workers Strike Ended After 20 Minutes

ST. LOUIS, June 5—Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. employees were called back to their jobs today after a 20-minute strike.

Union officials recalled the strikers who had walked out at 6 a. m. after they agreed upon a new one-year contract which reportedly granted the workers practically all their demands.

D. L. McCown, president of the CIO Communications Workers' union for the sixth district, said that an agreement would be signed tomorrow.

The new one-year contract will grant the 51,000 company workers in six states the full 10 percent wage increase allowed under the wage stabilization program. This will mean an immediate pay increase of from $3 to $8 in various cities and towns throughout the company's system.

Seven Foreign Youth Groups To Camp Together

CINCINNATI, June 5—An odd experiment in international relationship gets underway here this month when 48 youngsters no older than 12 go camping together.

The oddity comes into the picture in a check of the group's makeup. They represent seven foreign countries and not all can speak English. They were picked for the experiment on the basis of leadership qualities developed before the teens.

Th kids are to stay at the 16-acre St. Edmunds Camp which is sponsored by the Children's International Summer Village. There's no other camp like it in the U. S., but it is hoped that it will set a pattern for the rest of the world.

The sponsors are interested in observing what happens when the youth of various nationalities rub elbows at an age known for its lack of inhibitions.

All the children need concern themselves with are small daily duties such as helping in the preparation of meals, setting up activities groups and planning sports events.

General Motors Insurance Setup Dies In Court

COLUMBUS, June 5—The Motors Insurance Corp., a subsidiary of the General Motors Corp., has lost another round in its court right to get permission for 1,110 Ohio agents to resume writing insurance on automobiles they sell.

The firm lost out on a court action yesterday before the second district court of appeals in Columbus which refused to grant a temporary restraining order preventing State Insurance Superintendent Walter A. Robinson from denying insurance agent licenses to the firm's representatives.

The court upheld Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds who denied a permanent injunction to the firm March 23 and dissolved a temporary restraining order under which the corporation's agents had been operating since June, 1950.

The agents are, for the most part, connected with the business of motor vehicle sales. It has agents in 454 different locations in Ohio.

Judge Reynolds held that "licenses should not be granted to persons who were not intending to use the same for general insurance business but rather for their own individual benefit."

Fenwick said he used a paddle on the boy last September and "booted him a little" one time when he caught him pushing other pupils in the hall.

Mrs. Smey, according to Fenwick, asked to see the paddle and then wacked him on the head, cracking his nose and blackening his eyes.

Mrs. Smey, who said Fenwick started the row, told police she took off the principal's glasses and hit him with the Paddle "like he did to Danny."

Safe Speed Said Hard To Define

Various Factors Must Be Considered

Pickaway county motorists were told Tuesday that they must consider more than the speedometer in determining whether they are travelling at a safe speed.

"An unsafe speed," said Sheriff Charles Radcliff, "can mean anything from 20 to 100 miles per hour."

"It is the inability to recognize 30 or 35 miles per hour as an unsafe speed under certain conditions which leads to so much disaster on the highway. How fast is safe depends upon weather, other traffic, road surface and condition and reaction of the driver himself."

The sheriff added that high automobile speed has entered the luxury class.

He pointed out that excessive speed can no longer be considered as an incidental expense to the car owner.

"EVEN CAREFUL, economical driving," he said, "has reached the highest cost in automotive history. Add to these so-called normal costs the additional wear, tear and increased gasoline and oil consumption created by high speeds and the cost to the automobile owner really goes up."

High speed not only increases a rider's chances of an accident but also increases the chances of being killed in the event of an accident. On top of that, the slight gain in time from high speed is small in comparison to the actual dollars and cents loss to him.

"If you cruise at a speed of 60 miles an hour," Radcliff said, "you'll use about one third more gasoline than you would at a speed of 40 miles an hour."

"You'll also use about four times as much oil as you would at 40 miles an hour and will wear your tires out twice as fast. For this hard-cash loss and the additional risk to your life, you will gain only a few miles in a day's driving—a poor gamble by anyone's standard."

When Steel Flies, So Does Cop

CINCINNATI, June 5—You don't ask questions when several pounds of steel comes sailing your way. You scoot.

And Police Chief Thomas A. Fitzpatrick of Elmwood, a Cincinnati suburb, did just that.

The chief was investigating the mysterious explosions and bursts of flames from the sewer systems in Cincinnati's suburbs. Numerous explosions shattered windows and shook the outlying Cincinnati area.

Fitzpatrick went out to investigate. While he stood by a sewer manhole cover it blew off and sailed past him.

9-Farm Tour Scheduled By Hereford Group

Pickaway County Hereford beef breeders interested in improving their herds are urged to join in a tour of nine farms next Tuesday.

Sponsored by the Pickaway County Hereford Breeders' Association, the tour will give beef breeders comparisons for discussion on Hereford type, breeding, management, housing, feeding and feed production.

The tour is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m. next Tuesday from the Pickaway County extension office at Circleville Postoffice.

First farm to be visited by the beef breeders will be the Kenneth Blue farm in Washington Township.

From there, the tour will move to the Joe Courtright, Joe Peters and Fred Dillo farms in Walnut Township, and meet on the Herbert Ruff farm near Amanda at noon.

In the afternoon, the tour will move to the Salt Creek Township farms of Wayne Luckhart, Harold Strous, E. M. Maxson and Sons and Bookwalter and Fox.

The tour is to be conducted in the same manner as the pasture meadow tour, which was held last Friday. Nearly 50 persons participated in that tour, visiting the farms where ideal pasture programs were in operation.

OEA To Seek November Poll

COLUMBUS, June 5 — The Ohio Education Association will begin "within a few days" circulating petitions to have the voters decide minimum salaries for teachers which failed to pass the Ohio legislature.

W. B. Bliss, association executive secretary, foretold "extreme hardship for many Ohio school children this fall" as a result of the legislative impasse.

He said many teachers will quit in the next few weeks to take better paying jobs in industry and in other states.

A total of 87,000 signatures are needed to place the measure before the voters in the November elections.

West Pointers To Be Graduated In Ceremony

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 5—West Point's traditional June Week exercises come to a close today with the graduation ceremony and 475 cadets will receive degrees following an address by Defense Secretary Marshall.

For 69 of the new second lieutenants today is a double red-letter day, for as soon as the last man is given his B. S. in Military Engineering, they will hasten to the altars at three West Point chapels to wed.

West Point cadets are not permitted to marry until after graduation.

Yesterday the class of 1951 paraded with the cadet corps for the last time, then took places in the reviewing line to take the salute of the underclasses.

And last night they made merry at the annual supper and dance.

A host of illustrious West Point graduates returned yesterday to march to Thayer Monument with their classes. Among them were Gen. Jonathan Wainwright and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Airforce chief of staff.

Airforce Signs Jackson Grad

Raymond Ellsworth Hulse of Circleville Route 2, a graduate of Jackson Township high school, is believed to be the first member of the 1951 graduating class of any school in this area to enlist in the armed forces.

Hulse was enlisted on the first day of June, in the U. S. Airforce, and has been sent to Lackland Airforce base at San Antonio, Texas, for basic training. Upon completion of basic training, Hulse plans to enter the aircraft and engine mechanics school for further training.

Harold Sharpe Named To Head Arch Masons

Harold E. Sharpe of East Franklin street Monday was installed as new high priest of Circleville Royal Arch Masons.

Installation rites during the service were performed by Harry E. Sark, district inspecting officer, and Guy Sark, past high priest of the Circleville RAM.

Other officers installed during the session were Charles Carter, king; Arthur Sark, scribe; Bob Colville, treasurer; Edward Recker, secretary; Guy Cline, captain of host; W. E. Reichelderfer, principle sojourner; Roy Marshall, Royal Arch captain; George Horn, master third veil; George Cloud, master second veil; G. O. Sark, master first veil; and Clifton Shook, guard.

Music Means 'Starvation'

NEW YORK, June 5—James C. Petrillo wants parents to stop giving their youngsters music lessons because it's a "starvation business."

The president of the American Federation of Musicians, addressing the union's annual convention in New York, said:

"Let me say to the mothers and fathers of the U.S. and Canada, stop your children from taking lessons in music until there is a guaranty they can make a living at music."

Harold Sharpe Named To Head Arch Masons

Harold E. Sharpe of East Franklin street Monday was installed as new high priest of Circleville Royal Arch Masons.

Installation rites during the service were performed by Harry E. Sark, district inspecting officer, and Guy Sark, past high priest of the Circleville RAM.

Other officers installed during the session were Charles Carter, king; Arthur Sark, scribe; Bob Colville, treasurer; Edward Recker, secretary; Guy Cline, captain of host; W. E. Reichelderfer, principle sojourner; Roy Marshall, Royal Arch captain; George Horn, master third veil; George Cloud, master second veil; G. O. Sark, master first veil; and Clifton Shook, guard.

Following the ceremony,

Ted Lewis Park Supervised Play Program Booked To Start June 18

Circleville's fifth annual Ted Lewis Park Summer playground program is slated to begin June 18.

Basketball Coach Dick West of Circleville high school is again to be supervisor of this year's program, his third year as park instructor.

In addition, plans are being made for a girl's instructor to be on hand during this year's program.

Dick Morris, chairman of Circleville Kiwanis Club's boys' and girls' committee, said the committee has recommended that Beverly Reid of North Washington street be hired as supervisor of girls' activities.

Miss Reid, valedictorian of the 1951 Circleville high school graduating class, is to be hired to give more emphasis to girls' activities during the program.

Morris said the park program will open with registration at 9 a. m. June 18 in the shelter house and will continue through Aug. 10.

THIS YEAR'S park program is to be conducted in two daily sessions, the first from 9 a. m.

Manager Hints Maxim 'Doped' During Fight

CHICAGO, June 5—Fight Manager Jack Kearns suggested today that perhaps his Joey Maxim was doped when he failed to defeat Ezzard Charles in their heavyweight title bout in Chicago Stadium last Wednesday.

Kearns said Maxim fought like a man in a trance against Charles.

Dr. J. M. Houston, chief medical examiner for the Illinois Athletic Commission, admitted the light-heavyweight champion showed "symptoms of being doped," but added that he had no evidence.

Commission members scoffed at Kearns' theory, but ordered Maxim to suspend all training and fighting for 30 days after Dr. Houston reported the boxer "is on the verge of collapse from physical exhaustion."

The order will mean the postponement of Maxim's title defense against Bob Satterfield—originally set for June 27 in Chicago.

Mackey Is In, But Barely

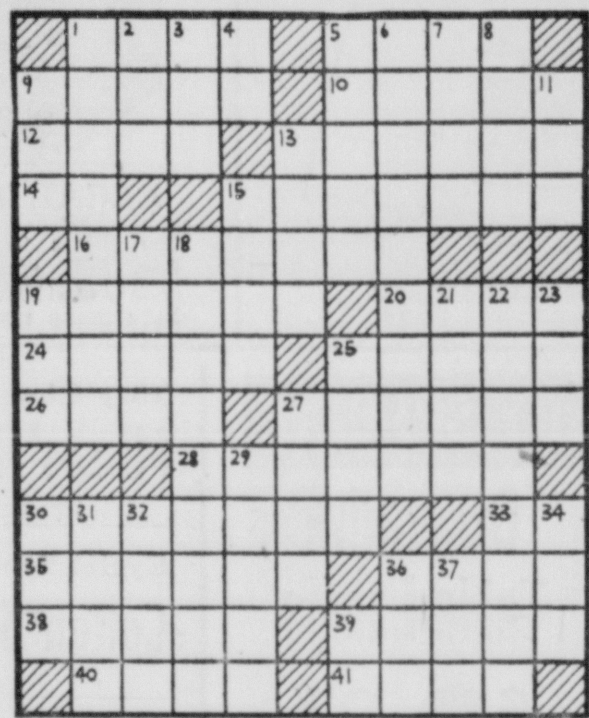

BIRMINGHAM, June 5—Lee Mackey Jr., Birmingham golfer who holds the all-time single round record in the U.S. Open tournament, has just managed to qualify for this year's event.

Regional tryouts closed last night in Birmingham and Mackey's 146 tied him with Dick Cline of Gadsden, Ala., and M. G. Walker of Birmingham for the last three of the five southern spots. Mackey set the record last year with a 64.

Low man in the qualifying round was Jack Murphy, a Birmingham pro who carded a 144. Dan Archer of La Follette, Tenn., was second with a 145.

Billy Meyer Due To Get Boot, So Pittsburgh Hears

PITTSBURGH, June 5—Billy Meyer is expected to be replaced as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow or Thursday when the executive board meets to discuss the last-place status of the team.

Vice-President Tom Johnson said last night the "plight of the Pirates undoubtedly will be discussed at a meeting either on Wednesday or Thursday."

Asked whether Meyer's job as manager was in jeopardy, Johnson said:

"That's up to Branch Rickey."

Rickey, who took over as general manager of the Bucs last Winter, is believed to be in favor of making the switch and putting a man of his own choosing in the pilot's job.

This is the last season of Meyer's contract, which reportedly calls for a $40,000 salary. Meyer, who has been bothered with stomach trouble, is expected to be let go and paid off.

Although Rickey has stated that Meyer was not to blame for the team's eighth-place finish last season ("they finished last on their merits"), Pittsburgh fans and the local press have been raising a storm about the club's miseries this year.

Golf Club Seen Delaying Nuptials

CLEVELAND, June 5—The scheduled wedding of a 24-year-old Parma girl may be postponed because of a golf club.

Ray Chiara, 17, and a rabid golf fan, went out for a few rounds of play at Ridgewood Country Club with a friend, Harry Williams, also 17.

When Williams was teeing off at the ninth hole, his golf club accidentally struck Chiara just above the forehead. The youth suffered a skull fracture.

The wedding of Chiara's sister, Dorothy, 24, may have to be postponed.

'Queen' Proximity Being Retired

GOSHEN, N. Y., June 5—Proximity, queen of harness racing, has been retired.

The nine-year-old mare, greatest money winner in the history of the sport, was taken out of competition yesterday by her owners, Ralph and Gordon Verhurst of Victor, N. Y.

They plan to give the great mare a rest and then ship her to the Walnut Hall Farm in Donerail, Ky., as a broodmare.

Proximity boosted her earnings to $259,929 before she went lame last year. She holds nine world and ten track records.
